The President's Letter

Dear Friends:

A new year opens before us. With it will come many opportunities to serve Christ. Great responsibilities will be faced by many and important decisions will need to be made. Though we don't like to think of it, disappointments may meet us along the way. Surely if we see all of these things having a place in our lives as instruments in the hand of our Lord for his glory and our good "we may boldly say, The Lord is my helper, and I will not fear" (Heb. 13:5). May each of you find in 1960 every day crowned with His blessing.

BONDS

By the time you receive this letter printed material will have come to you explaining the college bonds which are being sold to obtain money for our expansion fund. Over 17,000 letters have been mailed to our friends. If, for some reason, you did not receive this information and you are interested, please write to us. Our bonds will afford an opportunity for you to invest your money in the training of Christian young people and earn 5% return on it while you are helping in this way. It is a good investment for time and eternity.

BUILDINGS

By the time the students return from the Christmas vacation the lounge in the new dormitory will be finished. This means that with the exception of a few small details, the three buildings which were started last June, have all been completed. This could not have been accomplished without the dedicated hardwork of our contractor, James Richardson, Superintendent Cliff Boessel and the men who worked with them. We are grateful for all they have done.

MEN'S QUARTET

Last summer our men's quartet visited many churches and Bible Conferences in the mid-west. The reports which came back to the college of the ministry of these young men were most encouraging. They are interested in spending this summer visiting the churches in the east. Whether or not they go out again this summer will depend on the interest of the churches. Pastors in Ohio, New York, Pennsylvania, New Jersey, West Virginia and New England should contact the college NOW if you want the quartet to visit your church.

Sincerely in Christ,

James T. Jeremiah

Alumni Homecoming Displays

BY ALL MEANS!

Many avenues of service are open to you
Christian young person. Which one will you follow?

A festive air permeated the Cedarville College campus during the week-end of November 20-22. Displays of many descriptions, produced by classes and associations, decorated the college environs. Two of the prize-winning displays are pictured in the bulletin. Happy greetings were exchanged between former classmates and room-mates, and new acquaintances were begun.

This was the occasion of the annual homecoming activities. A group of fifty alumni, representing a cross section of the young Cedarville College Alumni Association, were guests of the college. This number does not seem at all large on the surface; however, when one takes into consideration the fact that only six small classes have graduated from the college since the administration changed hands in 1953, fifty is a good representation.

The festivities began at 9:00 A.M., Saturday with registration of the Alumni at the Administration Building. Following this the group met in the new snack shop for coffee and doughnuts.

At 10 A.M., the Alumni were given a guided tour of the campus and buildings, which have changed considerably in the last two years. Included in the tour were the new ladies' dormitory on the lower floor of which are temporarily housed the book store and snack shop; the newly renovated dining hall and the recently remodelled chapel. These improvements along with the much increased student enrollment were a great encouragement to those present.

The annual Varsity-Alumni basketball game, won by the varsity, was played in the afternoon, followed by aches and pains all day Sunday.

Saturday evening the college dramatics club presented the homecoming play, "The Thread That Runs So True", under the direction of Miss Ruth Kantzer. The play dealt with educational problems in the "hills". Following the play, refreshments were served in the gymnasium.

Sunday morning, Rev. Roy Shelpman, '57, was guest speaker at the morning worship service of the Grace Baptist Church.

The weekend's festivities proved to be a success. The grads who had found it possible to be in attendance returned to their various homes with hearts filled with praise and thanksgiving to God for His evident blessings upon their alma-mater.

The Alumni Association is endeavoring to reach as many alumni as possible. If per chance the reader is an alumnus of Cedarville College who graduated while the college was under the previous administration, and he would wish to be included in the association, please do not hesitate to contact the
